Growing Up in the Fire Service - How Your Work Impacts You and Your Family

A unique perspective on family life from the daughter of a first responder who is now a clinician and her father who is a thirty-year firefighter. In this 3-hour course you will be guided through an inclusive discussion on how the work we do affects our overall health, well-being and family life and strategies to manage it. While many classes are taught from the first responder's perspective, this class focuses on the friends and family's point of view. Friends and families are encouraged to attend. Instructor: Shaun and Ellen Abbey
